

The Sunday Hash

Issue 47

19 December 1999

Price 17/9

The 50th Hash run will be from the Horseshoe at Mildenhall, and will be marked by celebratory extras - hot punch and mince pies served en route, and exceedingly silly things to do. Try to wear something fun and in keeping with the occasion, but which will not impede your running style, if you have one. GOM will be using this as an excuse to wear his favourite suspenders and bra.

After the run the party will really start in the pub - champers and a remarkably fine buffet laid on in a separate room - all for a mere £6.00 a head. Please let Val know if you will be participating - and stump up in advance.

Another bargain will be the 50th run commemorative t-shirt, which will bear a close resemblance to the current KVHHH fashion-ware, but emblazoned with the 50th run details. As these will become what the apron is to Freemasons, please let the GOM know how many you want - and again cash (a steal at only £6.00) with order, or else he will have to flog the Jag to pay for them all.

WILTSHIRE LOONIES IN FREEZING MUD CHASE

There was drama in Lower Wanborough last Sunday morning when escaped lunatics were seen running half-naked over the downs (writes Hash reporter Peter Outt).

The story began as darkness lifted, when two elderly grey-haired men were spotted outside the Harrow. Local residents became worried when they began capering down the road throwing flour at each other. Soon the police were called, and Constable Harry "Snapper" Organs takes up the story: 'Me and the lads down the nick were called at about 9.04 and were immediately on their track in less than an hour. They left a sort of trail of flour, but although we searched hard, we was unable to find any flour in a big freezing muddy field, and so we lost the villains. They left an unsightly flour circle in the road, so we covered it with hay before heading off to the boozier'.

All seemed quiet for an hour or so, but shortly after 11 o'clock, a larger group of loonies, mostly called Keith, and also half-naked, were seen heading off in the same direction. They seemed very excited, shouting gibberish whenever they spotted flour on the ground. Residents were about to call the police again when they were reassured by the sight of a large group of warders, equipped with stout sticks and tracker dogs, marching determinedly after them.

The warders soon captured one of the ringleaders, who gave the false name of Mike Gom. They forced him to lead the group in pursuit of the loonies, who were spotted careering along the ridge to Upper Wanborough. Village idiot Ben Stansgate takes up the story: 'Well dem loonies came a-cacklin' up the hill - I reckons that Richard were the worst - he were a-givin' thanks to the Lord every time he done found some flour. And the language - there were a woman present, but they keeps a-shoutin' "Onan" all the time, and we all knows what that means - dirty beggars. Anyway, they was a-gettin' madder and madder, runnin' round and round the village. The worst one kept blowin a bloody horn! There were a bloke called Greg - they musn't have liked him very much. They kept a-sendin 'im off in the wrong direction, and as soon as he were out of sight, they all buggered off the other way!

Police dismissed out of hand stories that Keith M was spotted in the lead sprinting towards the Harrow. All the loonies vanished, only to reappear disguised as normal people, and were seen drinking with their captors in the Harrow at about 12.30. No arrests were made, and they were allowed to leave quietly, although Gom was later charged with stealing a newish Jaguar saloon.
